“Sport Engineering Approach”

Our athletes’ individual progress is regularly assessed, and during this process, each athlete evaluates feedback with their coach. These feedback sessions are shared during periodic meetings among the athlete, their family, and the coach. In these meetings, developmental issues are addressed, and solutions are collaboratively found to answer questions.

- JUNIOR ACADEMY

Hand-eye coordination, basic techniques and strategies, gamified training sessions, age-specific training sessions, learning sports with fun and without exhaustion, preparation for tournaments.

- BEGINNER and DEVELOPMENT CLASSES

The optimal starting age for fencing in beginner classes is between 7-9 years old. Training sessions for students starting at the age of 7 are designed to be gamified and appealing to children’s interests. This ensures that children learn sports without getting bored, having fun, and without exhaustion. For our athletes starting in development classes after the age of 9, more intense training programs are offered. We aim for success in national competitions with our sports engineering approach for these athletes. A training program tailored to each athlete’s goals and comfort level is provided.
